

BIOGRAPHY

Gary C. Humphreys,
President, CEO,
Humphreys & Associates, Inc.

As a consultant to industry, he has provided technical support in all phases of project management to over 600 clients in both North and South America, Australia and Europe. A graduate of the University of California at Berkeley, with a Masters Degree in Business Administration from the University of Southern California, Mr. Humphreys has served as Chairman of the National Defense Industrial Association (NDIA) Management Systems Subcommittee, President and Chairman of the Board of the Performance Management Association (PMA) which has now become the College of Performance Management (CPM) within the Project Management Institute (PMI), Leader of the Total Quality Management (TQM) Process Action Team (PAT) for streamlining earned value systems compliant System Descriptions, a member of the Nine Man Committee for increasing the cost effectiveness of earned value management systems, the Fifteen Man Industry Committee to modify traditional documentation and interpretation of earned value systems, and a charter member of the Institute of Cost Analysis. As a contributing member of the Integrated Program Management Initiative Joint Team, he received the DoD's highest acquisition award, the 1998 David Packard Excellence in Acquisition Award. Mr. Humphreys has been a keynote speaker on a variety of performance measurement related subjects at the Defense Acquisition University (DAU), Air Force Institute of Technology (AFIT), American Association of Cost Engineers (AACE), Project Management Institute (PMI), PROJEKFORUM in Sweden, numerous PMI and CPM National and International Chapter meetings primarily in Australia, Certified Public Accountants (CPA), Government Contracts Conference, as well as numerous Software User Groups.

NASA Project Management Conference